EVENING CRITIC PUBLISHING COMPANY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

Entered at the Pest Office in Washington as second class matter. Friday, June 30, 1882.

THE greater portion of our news columns to day is devoted to the particulars of the execution of Charles J. Guiteau. The law was fully carried out and the murder of James A. Garfield was vindicated, so far as the law could vindicate it, at the District Jail to-day. Guiteau's taking off was witnessed by only a small audience.
It would no doubt have been more pleasing to the criminal had a larger crowd been present. His exceeding egotism was such that, had he have been swung off in the presence of a thousand or more people, something really dramatic might have re-sulted. The last act of the great national tragedy having now been performed, the people of this country can turn their thoughts to some other matter, and the world can know that, though our mills of law and justice grind slow, they grind ex-
